You will confer a double favor by telling our advertisers that you saw their advertisement in this paper.

"WORK and wait," "work and wait," is what God says to us in creation and in providence.—J. G. Holland.

Disappointment should always be taken as a stimulant, and never viewed as a discouragement.—C. B. Newcomb.

No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, gentle, pure, and good, without the world's being better for it, without somebody's being helped and comforted by the very existence of that goodness.—Philips Brooks.

O, believe as thou livest, that every sound that is spoken over the round world, which thou oughtest to hear, will vibrate on thine ear! Every proverb, every book, every by-word that belongs to thee for aid or comfort, shall surely come home through the open or winding passages.—Emerson.

READ the Anvil Herald's advertisements and patronize those whose advertisements you find in its columns. They have bought the space because they want to call your attention to their wares and invite your trade. By patronizing them and telling them where you saw their advertisement you will convince them that their investment paid and that they will realize the value of our columns as an advertising medium.

THE Anvil Herald accepts advertising on the basis of over a thousand circulation weekly and at rates as low as is consistent with safe business methods. We solicit the patronage of all on this basis, realizing that we are giving value received and that the buyer of our space is making a good and profitable investment for himself. Any man who wants it on this basis can have all the space he wants; the man who seeks to dictate a single line of this paper's policy as the price of his patronage can't have an inch.

COMPTROLLER Lane, all booted and spurred, is astride the State wide Prohibition hobby and proposes to ride it straight into the capitol at Austin. There may be a political Moses who can lead the ants out of the wilderness but if so he is still hidden in the bulrushes for none can view the promised land from that quarter. As it looks at this distance, Mr. Lane's only handicap is the conflicting ambitions in his own camp. Perhaps fate will so intervene as to spare the state the sorrow of such a man for governor.—Hondo Anvil Herald. Real, honest-to-goodness pros and pro newspapers throughout the state are unwilling to trust any such laudable undertaking to the hands of fate and will proceed to dispose of him long before the democratic convention next year, Brother Davis. This Lane is not so long but that it has a turning, and opposition will develop and do the trick.—Beeville Picayune.

Gems In Verse

LINCOLN'S LAST DREAM.
April, flowers were in the hollows,
The air was April bells,
And the wings of purple swallows
Rested on the bottle shells.
From the war's long scene of horror
For now the nation found release.

All the day the old war eagles blew the
Hissed notes of peace.
Thwart the twilight's darkness curtains fell
The night upon the land,
Like God's smile of benediction shadowed
Faintly by his hand.
In the twilight, in the dusk light, in the
Starlight, everywhere,
Banners waved like garden flowers,
The pulsating air.

In art's temple there were greetings, gentle
The hurrying of feet,
And when the strains of music rose
And the numbers sweet,
Soldiers gathered, heroes gathered, women
Beautiful were there.
Will he come, the hero beloved, there to
Rest an hour from care?
Will he come who for the people long the
Cross of pain has borne,
Prayed in silence, wept in silence, held the Hand of God alone?
Will he share the hour of triumph now his
Mighty work is done.
Here receive the people's plaudits now the
Victory is won?

O'er thy dimpled waves, Potomac, softly
Now the moonbeams creep,
O'er far Arlington's green meadows, where
The brave forever sleep.
'Tis Good Friday. Bells are tolling; bells
Of chapels beat the air.
On thy quiet shores, Potomac; Arlington,
Serene and fair,
And he comes, the nation's hero, from the
White House, worn with care,
Hears the name of "Lincoln" ringing in
The thronged streets everywhere;
Hears the bells—what memories to his
Long uplifted heart!
Hears the plaudits of the people as he
Gains the Hall of Art.

Throbs the air with thrilling music, gayly
Onward sweeps the play,
But he little heeds the laughter, for his
Thoughts are far away.
And he whispers, faintly, sadly: "Oft a
Blessed form I see
Walking calmly mid the people on the Shores of Galilee.
Oft I've wished his steps to follow. Gently
Listen, wife of mine,
When the cares of state are over I will go
To Palestine.
And the paths the blessed follow I will
Walk from sea to sea.
Follow him who healed the people on the Shores of Galilee."

Hung the flag triumphant o'er him, and his
Eyes were dim with tears,
Though a thousand eyes before him lifted
Oft their smile to him.
Forms of statesmen, forms of heroes, women
Beautiful were there,
But it was another vision that had calmed
His brow of care.
Tabor glowed in light before him, Carmel
In the evening sun,
Faith's strong armies grandly marching
Through the vale of Esdralon;
Bethany's palm shaded gardens, where the
Lord the sisters met,
And the Paschal moon arising o'er the
Brow of Olivet.

Now the breath of light applause rose the Templed arches through,
Stirred the folds of silken banners, mingled
Red and white and blue,
But the dreamer seemed to heed not, rose
The past his eye before—
Armies guarding the Potomac, flashing
Through the Shenandoah;
Gathering armies, darkening waves, heroes
Marching forth to die,
Chickamauga, Chattanooga and the Battle
Of the Sky;
Silent prayers to free the bondmen in the
Ordeal of fire,
And God's angel's sword uplifted to fulfill
His heart's desire.

Thought he of the streets of Richmond on
The late triumphant day
When the swords of vanquished leaders
At his feet surrendered lay,
When amid the sweet bells ringing all the
Sable multitudes
Shouted forth the name of "Lincoln!" like
A rushing of the floods;
Thought of all his heart had suffered, all
His struggles and renown,
Dreaming not that just above him lifted
Was the martyr's crown,
Seeing not the dark form stealing through
The music haunted air,
Knowing not that mid the triumph the
Betrayal's feet were there.

April morning: flags are blowing; 'thwart
Each flag a sable bar,
Hear the people's benedictions; hear the
Nation's praise the dead,
Lovely land of Palestine, he thy shores
Will never see.
But, his dream fulfilled, he follows him
Who walked in Galilee.
—Hezekiah Butterworth.

The Knocker.

The knocker, oh, the knocker,
Filled with envy—full of hate,
God's creation, born of woman,
Yet an erring child of fate.
To the top rung of the ladder,
Known as "fame" he ne'er can climb,
He's a fixture—just a pimple,
On the motley face of time.

Oh! my heart goes out in pity
To the soul who hasn't pluck
To pull with might against the tide
But puts his trust in luck.

For he who sleeps at fortune's gate
In idle listless pose
May wake to years of bitter toil,
The golden gate may close.

Awake, thou son of slumber,
Cast off thy robes of night,
Cease singing mournful dirges,
Work—work with all thy might.

Fight all life's battles bravely,
Shout loud the battle cry,
Victory—victory for your motto,
Resolve to do or die.

To you, old chronic knocker,
These simple lines are penned;
Why decent men should kick and knock
I fail to comprehend.

When'er you find you're not a man,
Just bid the world good bye;
Admit your life a failure,
And then go off and die.

—C. M. LICKLIDER.

Rothe-Reinhart.

A very happy event occurred Wednesday evening at eight-thirty when a large number of friends and relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Reinhart to witness the wedding ceremony of their daughter, Laura Jane, to Mr. Arthur H. Rothe.

Promptly at eight-thirty, Miss Maggie Peters, seated at the piano, began Lohengrin's Bridal March and the wedding party entered the beautifully decorated parlor. Mr. Arthur Reinhart, brother of the bride, and Miss Mamie Rothe, sister of the groom; Master James Johnson and Miss Cecile Braden of San Antonio, the ring bearers; followed by the bride on the arm of her sister, Miss Adela Reinhart of San Antonio. The groom and his best man, entered from the dining room and the party met at the altar where they stood beneath the united hearts of evergreen containing the initials L and A.

Father Seamond of San Antonio in the very impressive Catholic ceremony made them man and wife. Still standing beneath the arch, Mr. and Mrs. Rothe received the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends who were glad to see their childhood love sealed and cemented in the holiest of ties.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of Shasta Daisies and wore a beautiful gown of Satin Messaline with veil and orange blossoms. The maid of honor wore a lingerie frock over blue silk. Miss Mamie Rothe wore a white lingerie frock over pink. The groom and his attendants wore the conventional black.

After the congratulations the guests were then invited out to the dining room where delicious cream and cake was served.

Misses Eula and Eunice Mahaffey served punch out in the back hall.

After cutting the wedding cake the bride slipped away to exchange her wedding dress for a beautiful traveling coat of brown with accessories to match. Miss Laura is one of Sabinal's own girls and is loved by all who know her.

Mr. Rothe is the son of Louis Rothe of D'Hanis. He is a promising young ranchman and upon their return from an extended wedding trip to California and Yellowstone Park they will make their home on his ranch.

The young couple left on the night train and if the farewell they received from their friends is prophetic of what their life will be, a journey of unalloyed pleasure, and if old shoes and rice will give a bridal couple away, fellow travelers will know without any telling who they are.

Miss Mamie Rothe got the bride's bouquet.

Here's to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rothe. May they live long and prosper.

The out of town guests were: Mrs. Joe Braden, San Antonio, Mrs. Hy. Steidle, Castroville, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdie Reinhart, Bisbee, Arizona, Mrs. John Rothe, San Antonio, Miss Adele Reinhart, San Antonio, Miss Mamie Rothe, D'Hanis, Mr. Henry Rothe and family, D'Hanis, Charles, Oscar, Gustaf, Jacob, Walter and Prof. A. Rothe, D'Hanis, Misses Alma, Elsie and Dora Rothe, D'Hanis, Mrs. Paul Reinhart and children of D'Hanis, and Miss Dolly Reily of D'Hanis.—Sabinal Sentinel.

Rid Your Children of Worms

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth, crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverishness and bad breath, are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years, and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. W. H. Windrow.

Few people ever stop to think of their blessings. They devote all their time to counting their troubles.

Obey That Impulse!

Instead of enduring the daily torment of weak back, headache, sore kidneys, swollen joints and rheumatism, obey that impulse to take Foley Kidney Pills. They co-operate with nature, which accounts for their success in all kidney and bladder disorders. They are healing, strengthening and tonic. Obey that impulse to-day and give them a chance to help you. W. H. Windrow.

Think only of yourself and people will call you thoughtless.

If you feel "blue," "No account," "lazy," you need a good cleaning out. Herbine is the right thing for that purpose. It stimulates the liver, tones up the stomach and purifies the bowels. Price 50c. Sold by W. H. Windrow.

TEXAS NEEDS GREAT MEN

XXXVI. ASPIRATION

ANNIBAL involved Carthage in a war with Rome and he became the mightiest military genius of any age or race, but his country was drenched with blood, the homes of his people went up in smoke and he died a fugitive from Roman vengeance. Many leaders thirsting for fame plunge their country into strife and dissension by whetting the appetite of the populace with envy and sowing seeds of revolt. There is no greater curse in government than unchastened ambition making a crimson pathway through the land.

HANNIBAL PLUNGING CARTHAGE INTO WAR.

Let those who dash billows of strife against the shores of peace understand that to rise ignominiously is to fall wretchedly; that no pestilence is greater than wretched leadership and no crime against humanity more terrible than chasing panting industry from the land and no scene more appalling than a country sick with strife. Texas Needs Great Men.

A Better Shoe for Men

The "Patriot"

In the "Patriot" you get the maximum of style, comfort and service—three qualities not often combined in a shoe.

The "Patriot" is the special pride of the 23 big "Star Brand" factories. The most skilled shoemakers among their 10,000 experts are making it.

There are over 750 styles of "Star Brand" Shoes. The leather in each hide is utilized according to grade. Only the finest cuts are used in the "Patriot". Each pair is as good as every other pair.

The style shown is one of our newest models for Spring—made of finest gun metal leather, hand welt, oak leather sole—New laces. Better than many other shoes costing a dollar more.

Beware of Adulterated Shoes

More than 90% of all shoes sold at $4.00 and less contain paperboard, leatherboard and other cheap substitutes for leather. You pay leather prices for them.

Pure Shoe bills now pending in Congress and many different states are designed to protect you. We heartily endorse this legislation. The rights of 100 million consumers are greater than a few hundred manufacturers.

There is one way to be sure you are getting an honest, leather shoe—simply ask for "Star Brand" shoes with the name on the sole and the Star on the heel. No substitutes for leather are ever used.

The "Patriot" and other "Star Brand" shoes are sold by nearly 20,000 good merchants. Don't just go into ANY store and ask for them, but come to us. We carry a complete stock.

A FORGOTTEN SAINT.

ON Valentine's forgotten day
Without the threshold Cupid waits
And peers between the close barred gates
At maidens where heart whole maidens stray.

FOR youth has grown so wise, they say,
That no fair bosom palpitates
On Valentine's forgotten day;
Without the threshold Cupid waits

IN February's twilight gray,
Nor yet with laughter contemplates
The locksmith who his will frustrates,
But turns with drooping wings away
On Valentine's forgotten day.

THE Anvil Herald comes out a day earlier this week that the force may enjoy the Fourth of July celebration.

CONSIDERABLE fear of the boll weevil exists among our cotton farmers, as the pests have already made their appearance in some fields. A few weeks of hot sunshine will possibly put them out of business, however, and it is not necessary to become unduly alarmed.

ABOUT a hundred and fifty of the 33rd Legislature's hodge-podge laws went into effect July 1st and the lawyers are busy guessing at what the supreme court's last guess at the enactments will be. Didn't we hear something once upon a time about "fewer laws and better laws" and "legislative rest"?

Paige Model Glenwood, completely equipped, $1275

HERE IS THE CAR that prominent men in the trade said we couldn't build to sell for $1275 with all its remarkable design and equipment. Some manufacturers declared it preposterous on our part to assume that we could do it. Dealers handling other cars declared we would put out a few of these really wonderful cars at $1275, just to get people interested, and then raise the price.

Well, we have been delivering the Paige "36" to our dealers ever since January 1st, and for every car delivered there have been a dozen purchasers waiting.

But have we raised the price? No. And now when the demand for the Paige "36" is simply showing us under are we raising the price? No.

We are leaving the price untouched and adding still more equipment. What will the other fellows say now? Can we do it! Well, we are doing it. And that is all that interests you car buyers.

Note the new equipment: Electric Horn, Quickly Adjusted Inside Storm Curtains, Combined Rain-Vision and Ventilating Windshield, Non-Skid Tires in Rear, Ventilating Hood.

Find such complete equipment, if you can, anywhere else in the whole Paige price-field. And find such a car! Any Paige owner—and they are almost everywhere now—will tell you what a car, just as a car, the Paige has proved itself. Those who own the "36" whether the touring car, roadster, coupe or sedan, are enthusiastic beyond words.

PAIGE 25—$950

Electric Starting and Lighting System $75 Extra

From this date we will equip the Paige "25" with an electric starting and lighting system for $75 extra. The car is designed to take the equipment, and it will be added at request. The additional charge is so reasonable that we know many purchases of the "25" will want the equipment. Think of this car, with electric starting and lighting, for only $1025. Wheel base 110 inches—32 in. x 3 1/2 in. tires—sturdy, silent motor, 3 1/2 in. x 4 in. unit power plant—cork insert multiple disc clutch—wide doors—roomy body.

Equipment of the Paige "25" is very complete, including genuine mohair top, side curtains and top boot; ventilating windshield, built into body; speedometer; two black enamel and nickel gas headlights; three black enamel and nickel side lights and tail light; demountable rims, one extra; non-skid tires in rear; robe rail; linoleum covered running boards; tire irons, horn, pump, jack, tools and tire repair outfit.

After Close Of School.

What shall I do with son and daughter after close of school? This question confronts many parents at this season of the year. We all concede that it is better to keep young people busy. Many times they are not qualified to be really useful in store and office, and they are usually not old and strong enough to do a man's work on the farm. It is then largely a matter of choosing between sending them to a summer school or letting them loiter about town. Surely this is the time to consider a business education of Bookkeeping, Banking, Shorthand and Typewriting.

The cost is small—around $50 for a single course of Bookkeeping and Banking or Shorthand and Typewriting, and around $85 for the two courses combined.

The San Antonio Business College, 307 Alamo Plaza, San Antonio, Texas, makes a specialty of these branches as well as Commercial Law, Business, Arithmetic, spelling, Penmanship, Rapid Calculation, etc.

Last year one Banker sent his own son to this college through summer vacation, and paid the way of three other ambitious students. The President of the college, Mr. H. C. Mitchell, will send catalogue and full particulars concerning the school upon request.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Steidle, Plainfield, N. J., writes, "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by W. H. Windrow.

Texas Leads all Other States in Beef Cattle Production.

For a generation or more Texas has lead every state in the Union in the production of beef cattle. At the opening of 1913 there were over five million head of beef cattle in Texas. Iowa came second with two million six hundred thousand head of beef cattle. This shows how completely Texas out-distances the other states in cattle raising.

A marked feature of the cattle industry of the Lone Star State is the steady improvement in the quality of its herds. For the past ten to fifteen years ranchmen all the way from the Panhandle to the Lower Gulf Coast Country have purchased thousands of pure-bred bulls in the North, and as a result of this far-sighted policy the beef cattle that Texas is today sending to northern markets are showing up better than ever before in the history of the state.

From 400,000 to 600,000 Texas cattle find their way each year to northern markets. In fact, if it were not for Texas the consumers in the United States would be lamentably short of beef steaks and roasts.

For the purpose of encouraging the ranchmen of Texas to continue to improve the quality of their cattle, the St. Louis Live Stock Exchange has offered special prizes for Texas cattle at the Feeder Cattle Contest to be held at the St. Louis National Stock Yards, September 1 to 25, inclusive. It will be possible for any Texas ranchman to win as high as $200, including sweepstakes, on a single load of Texas steers. Secretary H. F. Parry of the St. Louis Live Stock Exchange, says that he looks for an exceptionally strong exhibit of Texas steers at the coming Feeder Contest.

8105 Goats in Medina County.

A census report which has just been published shows 8105 goats in Medina County, which are valued at $23,323. The report is based on data gathered by the census enumerators in 1910 and relates to that year.

The total number of goats on all the farms and ranges of Texas is 1,135,344 and are valued at $2,214,077. Two per cent, or 7937 of the 417,770 farms of this state raise goats.

The Best Medicine in the World.

"My little girl had dysentery a very bad. I thought she would die. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured her, and I can truthfully say that I think it is the best medicine in the world," writes Mrs. William Orvis, Clare, Mich. For sale by W. H. Windrow.

PRACTICAL BAKING LESSONS

This is the first of a series of lessons which will appear on this page every week. There is a growing interest in home baking, as women are coming to realize that their own baking is far superior to the product of the bake shop and costs much less. In this department I will show you how always to have "good luck" with your baking. This is altogether a matter of having the right materials, putting them together the right way, and properly controlling the oven.

Bread Flour and Pastry Flour

OUR mills make two kinds of flour; one from hard Spring wheat called bread flour, the other from soft Winter wheat called pastry flour. The bread flour has a larger percentage of gluten which dissolves slowly and makes the flour harder to mix, so that it is less desirable than the soft wheat or pastry flour for quick baking. Pastry flour when pressed tightly in the closed hand, should feel soft and pack closely, retaining its form after the hand is opened, and showing the imprints of the fingers. If, on the other hand, the flour seems dry and harsh to the touch, and cannot be pressed into a form, it is bread flour, and will give good results only when a slow working yeast is used.

Pastry flour costs no more than bread flour and it is so much better for cakes, biscuits, muffins and all kinds of pastry that it should be kept on hand and regularly used. Please do not confuse pastry flour with the expensive packages of cake flour or the self-rising flour, which are sometimes called "Pastry Flour" and "Biscuit Flour." If you will remember that bread flour is a Spring wheat flour and pastry flour is a Winter wheat flour, and make it clear to your grocer which you want, you will be sure of getting it.

How to Make Delicious Biscuits

For biscuits let us select pastry flour, a good sweet shortening, a double-raise baking powder and sweet milk or water. Milk is to be preferred, as it browns the biscuits better. First, measure correctly and sift together at least three times, the flour, salt and baking powder. It is important to blend the baking powder thoroughly with the flour. Then with a fork or the finger tips work the shortening thoroughly into the flour and mix to a soft dough with the milk or water—just as soft as can be handled. Roll out very lightly, or better, spread and pat the dough out thin with the hands. Handle as little as possible after wetting. Then cut in small shapes for the oven, for small biscuits are very much better than large ones. If baked quickly, as biscuits should be, a large biscuit does not get the proper heat to raise and bake the center of the biscuit. A small biscuit raises perfectly, bakes better, is more palatable, and is easier to digest.

Biscuits should always be baked on a sheet or in a very shallow pan, as the biscuits should be above the sides of the pan in order to have the heat get to them quickly. If baked in a deep pan the sides shut off the heat, and the biscuits are likely to flatten out and run together and have heavy centers. Never

An Unromantic Love Story

By SADIE OLCOTT

Edwin Thorpe had been brought up with his cousin, Helen Willmarth, the daughter of his mother's brother, who had been taken into the Thorpe family when she became an orphan. When the two were grown Mrs. Thorpe, who was then a widow, was possessed of a fortune. One day when her son was about to start on a tour she said to him: "It is time, Ned, that I should take thought as to the disposition of my property. It was accumulated by your father, who left it to me, expecting that I would leave it to you. Helen has been brought up as one of our family, and I would like to divide it between you, but I feel it incumbent upon me to leave it all to you. There is a way, however, by which you could relieve me of the embarrassment."

"How is that, mother?" "By winning her for your wife."

Ned Thorpe had never thought of his cousin in this light. Both sexes seem to prefer to mate with some one they know nothing about than one they know all about. This is a requisite of romance. At any rate, without knowing it, this was exactly the view he took of the matter. From a boy he had had his dreams of some beautiful girl whom he should find in a bower of roses, who should greet him with a blush and a smile and after he had told his story should confess that she had been dreaming about his counterpart since she was a child.

For this reason he received his mother's announcement coldly. He was very fond of his cousin, whom he had regarded rather as a companion than a future wife, but his mother's suggestion was rather too businesslike to commend itself to one who had had such romantic dreams of the girl he should love not only on earth but through eternity. So he told his mother that he would think about it and nothing would give him greater satisfaction than to meet her wishes.

He was gone six months, during which the lady of the bower of roses did not appear. The girls he met were all flesh and blood of an ordinary texture, some of them possessing unattractive traits and some of them being positively disagreeable. The only person he saw during his tour, it is true, he first saw in a bower of roses, but she arose therefrom in a dress cut very low above and very high below, and pirouetted out toward the footlights before an audience of a thousand persons. His imagination was captivated, but not his common sense.

At last he returned to his home, thinking that, since he would please his mother by marrying his cousin and he had tired of waiting for the lady in the bower of roses to appear, he would consent to his mother's plan. Indeed, he admitted that it was a good plan. He did not like the idea of taking all the family belongings to himself and he didn't like dividing them between himself and some one else. He much preferred that it should be Helen's as well as his own.

Helen had improved during his absence, having passed out of what to some girls is an awkward age. She received him with the accustomed welcome, and his resolution received a new impetus. As soon as he was alone with his mother he said:

"Mother, I've come home with the intention of acceding to your wishes in the matter you spoke about to me just before I went away."

"What matter?"

"Why, in reference to Helen and I inheriting the family fortune as one."

"Oh, I remember, now you speak of it. That plan fell through immediately after you left us. I broached it to Helen, and she said that on no account would she accept an inheritance that your father had accumulated and intended should go at my death to his son. She is now studying to be a teacher. But she won't have to teach."

"Why not?" asked the young man, taken quite aback by the turn in the affair.

"Well, a certain man is attentive to her whom it is supposed she will marry."

"Supposed! Don't you know?" exclaimed Thorpe, getting up from his seat, thrusting his hands into his pockets and striding back and forth on the floor.

"Only Helen knows, my dear boy. But what means this change in you? When I proposed this union you did not appear to fancy it."

"Well, suppose I didn't. I've got my mind made up to it, and now I find I've made it up for nothing. It isn't treating a fellow right."

Mrs. Thorpe was looking at him out of a corner of her eye. She did not seem at all hurt at his utterances. On the contrary, she seemed to be endeavoring to conceal satisfaction.

"Well, dear," she said presently, "I'll send her in to you and you can settle it with her."

When Helen appeared the young man said to her:

"Helen, why have you upset this plan of my mother's to—"

"To what?"

"Well, that my father's fortune should be kept intact. Mother says that you—"

"Ned, whatever mother asks of me goes."

"Does it?"

"Yes."

"Same here."

This was the beginning; no romance, no bower of roses, no cooing. Wrong; there was cooing, but it began where this story leaves off.

HOW SHE SOLVED IT

By EDITH V. ROSS

"The servant question!" remarked Mrs. Tidball to Mrs. Strathmore. "Talk about the cost of living! It's not to be spoken of in the same breath as the servant question. And the trusts! What do I care about their extortion when I can't get a servant without paying her double what I used to pay? And she won't stay with me anyway!"

"It's the universal experience," replied Mrs. Strathmore. "I'm having the same trouble."

"When I found I couldn't use white or black servants," continued Mrs. Tidball, "I thought I'd try yellow. So I got a Chinese cook, who was highly recommended by the employment agent who sent him to me. I thought that, coming from the Celestial Kingdom far away on the other side of the globe, where his class are very poor and must live on mice and such things, he would be in clover at $25 a month, with as good food as the market affords, notwithstanding roast beef is worth nearly its weight in gold. But I found that he had come over to make money in order that he might go back home to feed on the more expensive diet of kittens, and nothing but his wages in dollars and cents counted with him. What do you suppose he did when I paid him his first wages? Why, he said I had agreed to pay him $30 a month, and when I demurred, although the dinner was to be prepared, he said: 'Belly good, I go to 'nother place where I get $50.'"

"How provoking!" sympathized Mrs. Strathmore.

"Well, there wasn't any use to begin back where I had started with white help and run through the races to the Chinese, so I must stick to the yellow. I determined to 'fight it out on this line if it takes all summer' and told the employment agent to send me another Chinaman. He sent me a mild-eyed man, who looked as innocent as a dove, though not the same color. He went into the kitchen, cooked an excellent dinner, asked me for a small advance on his wages, which I was silly enough to give him, and the next morning, not hearing sounds below, I went downstairs and found the fire gone out in the kitchen and not a sign of breakfast. My man had departed with his advanced pay."

"What a miserable creature!" put in the listener to the tale of woe.

"I was obliged to make a fire myself and get breakfast. Luckily I had learned to cook before I was married—my daughter shall learn to cook if worth a million—and I got up a breakfast which I had paid the Chinaman to get. I thought that it would be better to keep on getting it myself without paying some one else to do it for me, but my husband objected, and, since I hadn't yet got through with the yellow peril, I called on the employment man for another cook. He didn't say anything, but he looked surly, and I knew well enough he was thinking that I didn't treat my servants kindly. But I smothered my anger and paid for another servant."

"This one remained with me two days, got up excellent meals, and I was congratulating myself that at last I had found a treasure when, on the second day, he paralyzed me by giving me notice that he was going to leave me."

"For heaven's sake," I exclaimed, "why do you go? Why does every Chinaman who is sent me go?"

"He hesitated, and I urged him. Finally he said:

"'You no pay Chinaman.'"

"Don't pay? The last man I had I advanced his wages, and he left me without even working out what I had paid him."

"The man shrugged his shoulders."

"Tell me why you think I don't pay my servants their wages?" I urged.

"He went to the kitchen table, turned it upside down, and there on the lower side of the boards in red chalk were Chinese characters."

"How did they come there?" I asked. "What do they mean?"

"You no pay Chinaman. He write that to tell other Chinamen," was the reply.

"A light broke in upon my stupid brain. I had engaged a Chinaman to work for me, thinking the Chinese innocent of the ways of western servants, and behold, he had gone far beyond them in shrewdness! He had demanded more than I had agreed to pay and, when I refused him, not only left me with the dinner uncooked, but left behind him a false statement."

"Translate it," I said.

"This lady belly bad. She no pay wages."

"After arguing with the man a long while I induced him to remain with me on condition that I pay daily, but he was satisfied that the swindling was on the other side and preferred to get his wages at the end of the month. But when he was advised by a friend that he could get more at another place he left me."

"Since then I have been trying all sorts of expedients. I endeavored to get a girl for the afternoon and evening, to sleep in her own home. Thus far I've not had a single bite for this plan. I've considered giving up house-keeping and the comforts of home, but my husband and children could not endure boarding. I have finally decided to plod on as I am. Indeed, there are advantages in doing one's own work. We have our house to ourselves, have no fears of disasters in the kitchen, and it is much less expensive."

Up-to-Date and Novel

Advertising Methods Adopted By an Enterprising Firm

That Hondo is fast becoming metropolitan in the methods of advertising used by our merchants to call the buying public's attention to the many splendid values which they are offering, also that the wide-awake firm of W. H. Windrow is keeping up with and just a little ahead of the times in an advertising respect is again practically demonstrated by what is perhaps the most elaborate system of advertising ever attempted by any business house in this section, namely: the giving away of the beautiful Claxton Upright Grand Piano which is now on exhibition at his store.

This piano retails at $400, guaranteed for ten years. The principal points of superiority of this celebrated Claxton piano over any other of this class of instruments lie in the three strings in unison with overstrung bass, the splendidly pitched scale and true sounding board which give the Claxton that rich, deep, even tone so much admired.

In a recent interview with Mr. Windrow regarding this decided innovation in advertising, he stated: "We have been enjoying the patronage and confidence of the buyers of this community for some time now and by always trying to keep our stocks complete the saying that 'You can get it at Windrow's' has become a household expression. In giving away this piano we are actuated by a double purpose, to show our appreciation of the patronage of our friends during the past, also to encourage new trade and to bring the many splendid values we are now showing in all lines to the attention of every buyer in this territory. The plan we are using in giving away this piano is equitable and fair to all, simply this, every person buying one dollar's worth of anything in our store will receive a coupon good for 100 votes. The person returning to us the largest number of votes will be given the piano absolutely free of all cost. No favors will be shown. Our reputation for 'square-dealing' assures our customers of that fact."

This $400 Claxton Upright Grand Piano is surely a present worth having and we predict a very "merry race" for votes during the next few months. Mr. Windrow is surely to be congratulated upon his broad-minded methods and "trade-getter" advertising system.

A Good Investment.

W. D. Magli, a well known merchant of Whitewater, Wis., bought a stock of Chamberlain's medicine so as to be able to supply them he was himself taken sick and says that one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was worth more to him than the cost of his entire stock of these medicines. For sale by W. H. Windrow.

A drunkard's excuse usually is that every man has one or two faults.

This is the Piano We Will Give Away

CLAXTON UPRIGHT, VALUE $400

What Seemed to us to be a Question is now a Gratifying Success. It pays to be Liberal With Our Trade.

Since we first announced that we would give away this beautiful Claxton Upright Grand Piano to some one of our customers our business has shown a Big Increase in every department. Of course, the unusual values which we are offering have helped to make this increase and we shall continue along these lines. You will find our stocks complete in all lines regardless of the heavy daily demand.

BE SURE AND ASK FOR YOUR PIANO VOTES WITH EVERY PURCHASE.

How Coca Cola Refreshes.

The remarkable success which has attended the sale of Coca-Cola has been explained in many different ways. Some have attributed it to "good advertising," others, to "efficient management," others, to its "delicious flavor" and still others to the fact that it was the first in the field of "trade-marked" soft drinks.

In this connection, the opinion of a manufacturing chemist who has analyzed Coca-Cola and studied its history for many years, will prove interesting. He attributes the popularity of the drink in large part to its quality of refreshing both mind and body without producing any subsequent depression. He points out the fact that the chemical composition of Coca-Cola is practically identical with that of coffee and tea (with sugar added) the only material difference being the absence of tannic acid from Coca-Cola. He points to the laboratory experiments of Dr. Hollingworth of Columbia University and of Dr. H. C. Wood, Jr., of Philadelphia which prove conclusively that the caffeine-containing beverages (coffee, tea, Coca-Cola, etc.) relieve mental and muscular fatigue by rendering the nerves and muscles more responsive to the will, thus diminishing the resistance produced by fatigue. These experiments also demonstrate the fact that the caffeine group of beverages differ from the stimulants in that the use of the latter is followed by a period of depression which calls for more stimulation, thus resulting in the formation of a "habit."

"Hicks at College."

This play was postponed from Thursday night to tonight (Saturday, July 5th) on account of the Odd Fellows Installation. It is hoped that it will be well patronized as it is given for the benefit of the Woman's Missionary Society.

The scenes are at a big Northern college and the plot centers around the important base ball game of the season and a college boy who writes ads. To make things more exciting, a love affair is cleverly interwoven and all ends happily.

Act 1--Palace of Sweets, three days before the championship game.

Act 2--Campus of Northern University, morning, the day of the game.

Act 3--"The Quarters," home of the five boys, evening, just after the game.

About the Haupt Berry.

June 20, 1913.

Mr. John A. Head,
Bandera, Texas.

Dear Friend:

I want to say for the benefit of all who are interested in fruit raising, that I am nearly 90 years of age, was raised in the State of New York, which is a great fruit country, and have been in the orchard and nursery business the greater part of my life. I visited your patch of Haupt Berries a short time ago, and can truthfully say they beat any thing I have ever seen. Mr. Ramsey says in his circular something about 40 quarts being picked from one vine, and after looking at the heaps of berries on your vines I believe every word of it. Very respectfully,
17-2t AMASA CLARE.

DON'T LET YOUR LIVER GET LAZY

Dodson's LiverTone will keep it working and Make You Feel Well and Clean--No Bad After-Effects

If you have allowed your fear of calomel to keep you from toning up your liver when it gets a little sluggish and lazy--try Dodson's LiverTone, and note how quickly and harmlessly it starts the liver and relieves constipation and bilious attacks.

When you take Dodson's LiverTone, you do not have to stay in the house all day. None of the weakening and harmful after-effects of calomel follow its use. Dodson's LiverTone is a mild, pleasant vegetable liquid that cannot hurt either children or grown people. Yet it easily overcomes the most stubborn and inactive liver without making you quit eating or working.

These are not just claims. W. H. Windrow's drug store backs up every one of these statements and agrees to refund the price of Dodson's LiverTone with a smile to any person who pays his 50c for a bottle and isn't satisfied that he got his money's worth.

Imitations of Dodson's LiverTone are another proof that it is a good thing. Nobody ever imitates a poor remedy. Be sure you get the genuine Dodson's LiverTone--the kind that is guaranteed.
